

OSU CONFERENCE ON
LINGUISTIC PEDAGOGY

Friday, January 15 – Saturday, January 16, 2010
The Ohio State University
040/155 Jennings Hall (1735 Neil Ave.)

Friday, January 15 (040 Jennings Hall):

- 1:20–1:30: WELCOMING REMARKS
- 1:30–2:00: Nassira Nicola (University of Chicago), ‘Undergraduate linguistics for non-linguists: Core and general education as public outreach’
- 2:00–2:30: Robert Troyer (Western Oregon University), ‘Stylistics in the literature classroom: Pragmatic awareness in Hamlet and the dorm’
- 2:30–3:00: Steven Hartman Keiser (Marquette University), ‘The linguistics classroom: An ideal site to promote quantitative reasoning across the university curriculum’

BREAK

Keynote Speaker (155 Jennings Hall):

- 3:30–5:00: Kirk Hazen (West Virginia University), ‘Teaching to the choir and beyond: Being overt with the foundations of science, linguistics, and 21st century America’
- 5:00–6:30: RECEPTION (122 Oxley Hall—across Neil Ave.)

Saturday January 16 (040 Jennings Hall):

Coffee, tea, and bagels available from 8:30 in hall outside Jennings 040

- 9:15–9:45: Christopher Sams (Stephen F. Austin State University), ‘Online linguistics instruction’

9:45–10:15: Kazuko Hiramatsu (University of Michigan–Flint), ‘Making linguistics relevant with online resources’

10:15–10:45: Bruce Anderson (Glendon College/York University), ‘Teaching technology in an undergraduate linguistics program’

BREAK

11:00–11:30: Beth Rapp Young (University of Central Florida), ‘Using Google to teach English grammar to advanced undergraduates’

11:30–12:00: Helen Riha (Oakland University), ‘Online forums with experts: An innovative way to teach sociolinguistics’

12:00–12:30: Lauren Squires & Robin Queen (University of Michigan), ‘Media clips collections: Creation and application in the linguistics classroom’

LUNCH (040 Jennings Hall)

2:00–2:30: April Grotberg, Nassira Nicola, and Christina Weaver (University of Chicago), ‘The problem of problems: Phonology pedagogy for the twenty-first century’

2:30–3:00: David Bowie (University of Alaska Anchorage), ‘Notions of grammaticality among undergraduate linguistics students’

3:00–3:30: Marina Gorlach (Metropolitan State College of Denver), ‘Teaching modern linguistic theories to undergraduates’

BREAK

3:45–4:15: Stephanie A. Schlitz (Bloomsburg University), ‘Enhancing HEL with a socio-historical perspective: The London Project’

4:15–4:45: Terrell Morgan (Ohio State University), ‘Okra and Columbus: An object lesson in historical linguistics’

4:45–5:15: Sharon Miriam Ross (Ohio State University), ‘Through the looking glass: A novel perspective on teaching semantics and pragmatics’

END OF CONFERENCE