

The First (Ever) Martin Luther King Day Symposium on Modern Greek Linguistics

Monday January 19
122 Oxley Hall
9:00 AM - 5:00 PM

9:00: Welcoming remarks

9:15 - 9:45

Tanya Ivanova (OSU): "Non-referential Pronouns: The Case of the Ethical Dative in Greek and other Balkan Languages"

9:45 - 10:15

Panayiotis Pappas (Simon Fraser University): "Weak pronoun placement and the varieties of Medieval Greek"

10:15 - 10:40: BREAK

10:40 - 11:30

Mark Janse (University of Ghent & University of Amsterdam): "Old Wine in New Skins. Topics in Cappadocian Grammar"

11:30 - 12:00

Giorgos Tserdanelis (OSU): "Segmental correlates of prosodic structure in Greek"

12:00 - 1:00 LUNCH (Provided courtesy of Naylor Professorship)

1:00 - 1:45

Angela Ralli (University of Patras): "The Role of Allomorphy in Inflectional Morphology"

1:45 - 2:15

C. Anton Rytting (OSU): "An Approach to Greek Word Segmentation Using Minimal Information"

2:15 - 2:45

Amalia Arvaniti (University of California, San Diego) & Brian D. Joseph (OSU): "On Using Song Recordings in Studying Historical Phonology: Early Modern Greek /b d g/"

2:45 - 3:00 -- BREAK

3:00 - 3:30

Katerina Nicolaidis (University of Thessaloniki), Jan Edwards (OSU), Mary E. Beckman (OSU), and Giorgos Tserdanelis (OSU): "Acquisition of lingual stops in Greek"

3:30 - 4:00

Marios Fourakis (OSU): "Temporal characteristics of [ps], [ts], and [ks] in Modern Greek"

4:00 - 5:00

C. Anton Rytting (OSU): "Attitudes to MG /i/ and /j/ in lexical and social contexts" [First Pre-Candidacy Paper presentation]