An Igor macro based on robust baseline estimation is introduced, which uses techniques of robust local regression to estimate baselines in spectra that consist of sharp features superimposed upon a continuous, slowly varying baseline.